Biographical Note

V. F. [Victor Francis] Calverton (1900-1940), né George Goetz, was a radical reformer, author, founder and editor of the Modern Quarterly. Calverton was born in Baltimore, Maryland in 1900, the son of Charles and Ida Janette (Geiger) Goetz. Calverton graduated with an A.B. from John Hopkins University (1921). Calverton was the author of 18 monographs which included: The Newer Spirit (1925), Sex Expression in literature (1926), For Revolution (1932), and Where Angels dared to tread (1939). Calverton was the editor of An Anthology of American Negro literature (1929). Calverton married twice; his second wife was the actress and social worker Nina Melville.

Nina Melville (1910-1966), née Hortense Goodsitt, was a graduate of Hunter College. After a brief career as an actress, Melville pursued social work in New York City where she had a career as an associate editor of the Modern Quarterly. Widowed by the death of V.F. Calverton in 1940, Melville married Peter G. Berdeshevsky in 1942, a consultant engineer in the sugar industry.

Scope and Content Note

The Victor Francis Calverton Papers, 1923-1941, contain general correspondence, personal correspondence, writings, scrapbooks, printed material, photographs and artifacts. The General Correspondence, 1923-1940, is mainly incoming letters to V.F. Calverton, in his capacity as editor of the Modern Quarterly. The correspondents included colleagues, subscribers to the Modern Quarterly and left wing organizations. The personal correspondence consists mainly of Calverton's love letters to Nina Melville (1928-1940). There are some miscellaneous letters to both Calverton and Melville. The writings include manuscripts and notes by Calverton and manuscripts submitted to the Modern Quarterly. The additions to the collection include correspondence, manuscripts by Calverton, notes and memos, writings by others, photographs of Melville and Calverton, and an artifact.

Arrangement Note

The Victor Francis Calverton papers (1923-1941) which are contained in 61 archival boxes and 25 volumes (31 linear ft.) are arranged into five series. Series I. General Correspondence; Series II. Writings; Series III. V.F. Calverton - Nina Melville Correspondence; Series IV. Manuscripts; Series V. Photographs; Series VI. Additions, Series VII. Scrapbooks.
