Description:

The Papers of Walter Del Mar, 1882-1944, are arranged in three series. 1) General Correspondence, 1900-1944; 2) Business Papers, 1882-1901; 3) Writings

Walter Del Mar (1862-1944), banker, broker, journalist and author was born in New York City on May 28, 1862. He is the son of Alexander Del Mar an engineer and author. During the early Nineties, Del Mar was a financial correspondent in London. Soon afterward he established his own banking firm, which became a London representative for important American interests. In 1914, he returned to the United States and lived in this city until his death in 1944. An author, Del Mar published books on his extensive travels, notably "Around the World Through Japan". A bachelor, he was survived by two sisters and three brothers.

The Papers are basically concerned with Walter Del Mar's business interests and travels. Series one, General Correspondence, 1900-1944, are mainly letters from the New York Public Library regarding Del Mar's gifts, requests, etc. Series two, Business Papers, 1882-1901, are correspondence, memoranda, agreements relating to Walter Del Mar & Company, London, E.L. Oppenheim and Company and various other business interests. Noted are papers regarding the Sampola-Brasseur process of color photography and on multicolor printing, 1896-1901. Series three, Writings, contains notes, diaries, address books and typescripts. The remaining material is photographs albums (2) of travels and loose photographs.
